Who we are...

The Friends of the Central Library (FOCL) supports the Syracuse Central Library, the hub of the Onondaga County Public Library, as a vital resource for enriching the cultural and intellectual life of our community through its urban facility and programming. A nonprofit organization established in 1993, FOCL presents a nationally acclaimed author lecture series and other fundraisers to enable a significant annual donation. FOCL develops advocacy and outreach programs to champion the Central Library in making a positive difference on lifelong learning through the power of ideas and information.

The Friends of the Central Library believes that libraries are critical to the vibrancy of a community. Libraries afford residents opportunities to job search, research historical and genealogy records, educate, and entertain. FOCL supports and funds literacy efforts and resources.

The Mission of the Friends of the Central Library is to champion the Central Library as a vital community resource. Through fundraising and public advocacy, we enhance the excellence of our library and its capacity to serve the community.

What we do...

Since 1997, FOCL has donated over $600,000 to support library programs by purchasing books and materials.

FOCL produces and promotes the Rosamond Gifford Lecture Series, the largest library-related lecture series in the country. For Twenty-Two seasons, the Friends of the Central Library brought over 100 world-famous authors to Syracuse to entertain, inform and inspire our Central New York audience.

Why sponsor...

By sponsoring the Rosamond Gifford Lecture Series, your company will have a wide marketing reach due to extensive promotion in a variety of media outlets, guest attendance, and numerous library patrons. Your support will assist FOCL in providing support to the Central Library and their mission as well as literacy efforts in the community.
